I favor less regulation of violence on TV. While I don't believe that violent TV is good for children, I also don't think the proper solution is more government regulation. Parents who don't prevent their children from watching inappropriate TV content are likely to have lots of other parental shortcomings. I think it is exceedingly un-American to overly restrict the amount of gunfire, explosions, and death on TV.